MEAT HYGIENE INSPECTOR

Location: United Kingdom

Job Type: Permanent, full-time

Salary: £1500 (approx. € 2050) per month or over

Number of positions: Multiple

Employer Details:

We are one of the largest, fastest growing and most reliable companies in the food and farming compliance sector in the UK. Our ability to combine senior subject-matter experts, large-scale staff management and information technology enables us to provide advice and support to organisations across the food chain on matters such as Food Safety, Animal Welfare and British Retail Consortium compliance. The portfolio of our consultancy services makes us the "go to" organisation for all regulatory and quality requirements of food sector customers.

Job Details:

As a Meat Hygiene Inspector (MHI), you would visit slaughterhouses and processing plants to make sure the standards for health and hygiene are met. Working closely with livestock breeders, slaughterhouse staff, vets and other colleagues and stakeholders, your duties could include:

- Providing support to the Official Veterinarian as part of a team of MHIs carrying out official controls
- Conducting post-mortem inspections on carcasses and offal
- Making sure slaughterhouses and cutting plants comply with animal welfare and food hygiene standards
- Supervising disposal of unfit meat
- Writing reports on the inspection of slaughterhouses and cutting plants
- Keeping up to date with the new and amended regulations
- Checking that recommendations have been carried out
